

Student Success Stories

Jamie King, RLNC Graduate 2015

Born and raised in Minneapolis, Jamie King has always had a desire to attend college. Life circumstances caused a delay in Jamie's plan, but it did not stop her from accomplishing the goals she set out to achieve at a young age. At the age of 27, Jamie earned her GED and began pursuing her associates degree at the Red Lake Nation College in 2013. Jamie went on to be an extremely successful student, receiving honors for academic performance as well as serving as a member of Student Council. Her dedication and commitment to the Red Lake Nation College served her well as she is now employed as the RLNC Bookstore Associate & Financial Aid Assistant. Jamie reminds other students, "Don't doubt yourself, you can accomplish anything you put your mind to."

Betty Kimbrell, RLNC Graduate 2015

Betty made the decision to attend college at the age of 29, while bearing the responsibility of being a single mother to two small children at home. At the time, Betty struggled to find work that was consistent and determined that attending college was the best decision she could make for herself and her family. While attending college was the best decision Betty felt she has ever made, her journey was not without challenges along the way. In fact, Betty, was so successful as a student she made the President's List for outstanding academics. In the spring of 2015,

Betty graduated as the Valedictorian of her class and now works as the Admissions Counselor for the Red Lake Nation College. Betty now enjoys assisting others in helping make their dreams come true and encourages them. She says, "It's never too late to pursue your dreams and attend college."
